Eighteen Committees Working On Preparation for Centennial

Plans for the Sedalia Centennial, to be held Oct. 16-22, 1960, are well on the way but have not reached final form. In an effort to get every Sedalian "in the act", the steering committee, composed of 24 citizens appointed by the City Council, continues to receive suggestions and many suggestions have been received and adopted. If the Centennial makes profits, the profits go to the City of Sedalia and have been earmarked for use in youth activities in the city.

Eighteen Centennial committees are functioning under the supervision of the Sedalia Centennial Association. They are: General steering committee, executive committee composed of officers of the association and chairman of each division, history of Sedalia committee, committee for solicitation of sponsors, finance committee, promotional committee, parades committee, publicity committee, square dance festival committee, Centennial queen committee, queens ball committee, athletic events committee, decorations committee, religious services committee, flower shows committee, Music Day committee, merchants' window display and bazaars committee, Sedalia Industry and Commerce Day committee, class reunion and special guest committee. A reading of the committees gives some idea of the extent of the program.

Jack Oakie, internationally known actor, was born in Sedalia. The Centennial Association has a letter stating Jack Oakie, "God willing," will attend the Centennial.

The Helen G. Steele Music Club is sponsoring a musical composition for the Centennial. Several other organizations are sponsoring special events.

Before outlining a program, the officers of Sedalia Centennial conferred with leaders of centennials in six other cities to ascertain activities which were successful and activities which should not be undertaken. An outline of the tentative program follows: A complete history of Sedalia has not been written since 1882. A history of Sedalia, now about three-fourths completed, is being prepared under the direction of the history committee, B. B. Ihrig, chairman. The history will cover the period 1860 to 1960, will have between 400 and 600 square inches of illustrations and should be of permanent value. The size of the book will depend upon the amount which can be raised from sponsors. It is hoped enough sponsors can be procured to print a book of 200 pages to be published early in 1960. However, the Centennial Association desires to avoid a deficit and the size of the book will depend upon the number of sponsors procured. It is proposed to print 4,000 copies. To procure distribution, it is proposed to sell the book for cost or less. More than 150 persons have participated or been interviewed in connection with the preparation of the book.

The first day, Oct. 16, 1960, will be devoted to religious services. Ministers are being requested to speak upon the subject, "Faith of the Pioneers." Both style shows and flower shows are being arranged. A Centennial queen contest will be held. One day will be devoted to music. An extensive parade with pageantry, tentatively set for Tuesday, Oct. 18, will be held, with the queen's costume ball the same evening. If plans work out as tentatively arranged, it is hoped to have Jack Oakie in Sedalia on Oct. 18 to participate in the parade and the ham breakfast tentatively set for the morning of Oct. 18. The Missouri State Wide Square Dance Festival will be held during the Centennial, under the supervision of a special committee. Centralia had a very successful industry and commerce day, and such a day is in the Sedalia program. A merchants' sales and bazaar day will be part of the program and it is hoped to have a Pioneer Homecoming and Youth Day, with athletic events the afternoon and evening of Saturday, Oct. 22.

Nationwide Program

Sedalia Will Participate In Vehicle Safety Check

Plans for Sedalia's participation in the National Vehicle Safety Check program to be conducted in May are being made, and some definite information should be available next week.

Charles E. Leftwich of Mike O'Connor Chevrolet-Buick Co., who has been named chairman of the program, said a committee of representatives of local car dealers is to meet next week and work out the final details. He added that the check would probably be made in the latter part of the month.

Nationally, the program is sponsored by Look Magazine and the Inter-Industry safety committee. Statewide, it is approved by the Highway Patrol, although it is not conducted by the patrol. Locally, it is conducted as a community project.

Last year in Sedalia, safety check lanes were set up for the free inspection of motor vehicles through the cooperation of various clubs, tire dealers, garages, auto dealers and service stations on a voluntary basis.

In commenting on the absolute necessity for driving a safe automobile, Col. Hugh Waggoner, superintendent of the Highway Patrol, said today, "Where traffic safety is concerned, nothing can take the place of personal responsibility; care will not only prolong the life of the car, it may save a human life. The penalty for vehicle neglect may be death for the driver. Worse still, death for several other people is always a possibility."

The death and injury toll, ad-year was 977 people killed in traffic accidents and could have been lowered considerably had all motorists assumed the personal responsibility of driving mechanically safe vehicles, Col. Waggoner said. In addition to the death toll, more than 11,000 people were injured in traffic accidents in rural areas of the state, plus thousands of others on city streets.

"The death and injury toll added to the economic loss of more than $121-million last year in Missouri, is indicative of the need for every precaution to be taken," he said. "The very least a driver can do, as his contribution to the over-all traffic safety picture, is to have his vehicle checked in an effort to prevent a traffic accident."

Bulletin

One of the large rock posts at the entrance of Liberty Park, at Third and Park, was knocked over about 12:44 p. m. Tuesday, when struck by an automobile. Occupants of the vehicle escaped with minor injuries.

The car, a 1952 Studebaker sedan, was driven west on Third by Miss Martha E. Martin, 16, of 2403 Kay Avenue, and a 1958 Imperial Chrysler sedan was driven east on Third by M. D. Weathers, 62, of 1900 West Tenth.

Weathers started to turn at the jog in Third Street and his vision was blocked by another car. The bumper on the Chrysler struck the left front fender of the Studebaker and Miss Martin kept going straight and crashed into the rock post.

Miss Michelle Pountain, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pountain, Whiteman AFB, was riding with Miss Martin. She was not injured.

Miss Martin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verrel Martin, and the car belonged to her brother, William.

Damage to the Chrysler was a skinned bumper, while the front end of the Studebaker was demolished. Parks wrecker towed the Studebaker away.

Money Requests Slashed

Approximately Same Amounts Appropriated

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—State institutions today are faced with the prospect of operating for the next two years on approximately the same amount they were allotted during the two years ending June 30.

That was the immediate result of the work of the Senate Appropriations Committee as it disclosed cuts of more than 33 million dollars from House-approved figures. Before becoming final, the money bills must be resolved by conference committee and adopted by both houses.

The mental health program was approved in full by the committee when it restored $391,000 cut by the House. The money is to be used to set up a central management staff in the Division of Mental Diseases to develop and coordinate a modernized mental health plan.

On the other hand, the committee slashed the budget for the state hospitals and training schools under the Division of Mental Health.

St. Louis State Hospital's appropriation was reduced more than a million dollars to $8,924,460.

More than $940,000 was cut from the funds for State Hospital No. 1 at Fulton. The committee recommended an appropriation of $6,303,000.

The budget for State Hospital No. 2, St. Joseph, was reduced from $5,167,551 to $4,312,000. Funds for State Hospital No. 3, Nevada, were cut from $5,367,338 to $4,716,770, and those for State Hospital No. 4 at Farmington were dropped from $4,840,374 to $4,133,000.

Nearly $800,000 was lopped off the appropriation for Missouri State School at Marshall, Carrollton and Higginsville. The final figure approved by the committee for the institution was $3,764,163. The money for the St. Louis State Training School was put at $2,416,600, a reduction of $860,951.

The state's institutions of higher learning were hit by the committee's knife.

Funds for the University of Missouri proper were cut nearly two million dollars to $15,793,109.

In addition, appropriations for many of the University's branches also were slashed, such as the Agricultural Extension Service, the University Hospital, etc.

The Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla saw its budget request cut from $3,446,845 to $2,895,630.

Appropriations for the state's colleges and Lincoln University suffered similar fates.

Funds for Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg were shaved by about $400,000 to $2,464,400. The figure recommended by the committee for Northeast State College, Kirksville, was $2,165,302, a reduction of $113,223.

House Kills Increase In Cigarette Tax

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The Missouri House refused again today to pass an increase in the state cigarette tax from two to three cents a package.

Sponsors had said that the $5,000,000 a year increase in revenue would help balance the budget passed by the House but sharply cut by the Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday.

Today there was little argument—just the conclusive 74-65 vote, giving the motion to reconsider the once-defeated bill five votes less than the 79 needed.

Here We Go

After all that heavenly commotion last night, the dawn came up fresh and fair—just right for coaxing those now-wet gardens into full production.

Fair tonight and Wednesday; warmer Wednesday; low tonight 48; high Wednesday 75.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 49, with 47 being low on Monday night. At 1 p. m. it was 70. Rainfall 48 in.

The temperature one year ago today, high 64, low 50, with 91 inch of moisture; two years ago, high 70, low 55, with 85 inch of moisture; and three years ago, high 89, low 65.

New Missile Aloft

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A smoky two-stage rocket, one of the test models for the Air Force's new Bold Orion air-to-ground ballistic missile, roared aloft Monday on what appeared to be a perfect start.

Air Force officials said only that a research and development vehicle was launched.

The aim of the highly secret Bold Orion program is to develop a nuclear tipped ballistic missile that could be fired more than 1,000 miles from beneath the wings of the nation's huge jet bombers.

Herter Arrives In Paris

State Secretary To Help Complete Germany Proposals

PARIS (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter arrived from Washington today to help wrap up Western proposals on Germany for the Geneva foreign ministers' conference with the Soviet Union.

In a brief arrival statement, Herter said he is confident the West will approach the Geneva meeting "with unity and firmness of purpose."

He referred to disagreements among the Allies over proposals to be made to the Soviet Union saying, "it is wholly natural that the Western Countries should regard the questions to be discussed with the Soviets from somewhat different points of view."

But he said he has no doubt the Western Allies will "agree wholeheartedly" on the position they will take in Geneva.

Herter stepped from his four-engine Air Force plane and walked easily down the ramp. He had a broad smile and warm handshakes for the welcoming party.

With the aid of crutches he walked over to a group of photographers behind a police barrier and posed for several minutes.

Then Herter went into an airport reception room and made his statement, first in slightly accented French and then in English.

Herter expressed confidence the allies would "reach the right result" as he left Washington by plane Monday night for his first foreign assignment as secretary of state.

Herter is to meet for three days, beginning Wednesday, with the British, French and West German foreign ministers.

The new U. S. Secretary said the Allied ministers "will be primarily concerned with reaching final agreement among ourselves on a common Western position on outstanding questions related to the German problem which can be expected to arise during the Geneva four-power meeting."

"We have found the basis for a general agreement," a top French diplomat reported. An American source added: "I'd be surprised if we didn't have it wrapped up beautifully before Geneva."

The four Western ministers will work on recommendations drawn up by a team of experts at London meetings which ended last week. They also will have suggestions from their North Atlantic Alliance partners who have studied the experts' recommendations.

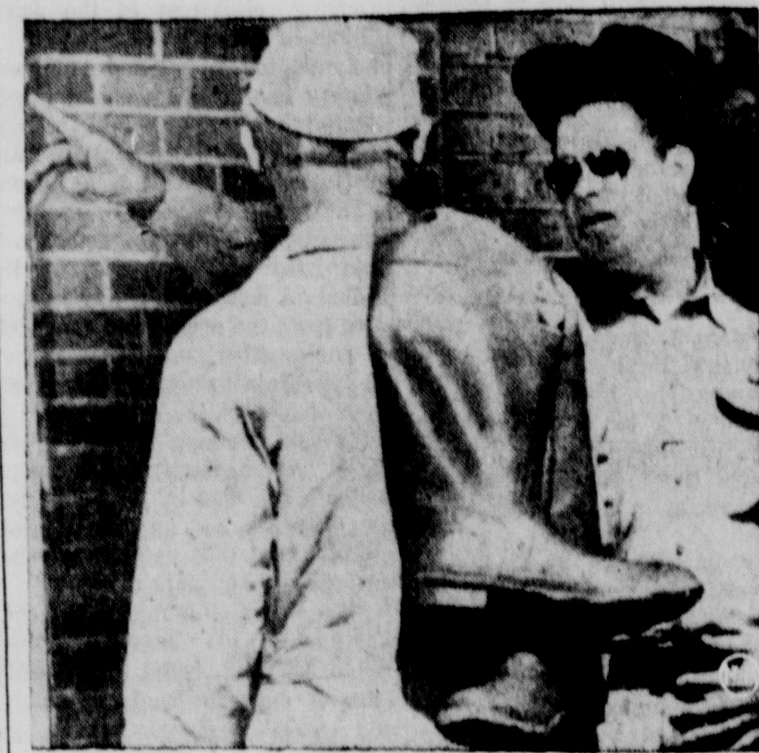

They may also get a new inkling of Soviet views on the Berlin and German problems from the Warsaw Pact conference which opened in the Polish capital Monday.

New Chief

MOVES UP—Tough, Moscow-trained Liu Shao-chi, above, Red China's No. 2 Communist, has replaced Mao Tse-tung as titular head of the Peiping regime. Chou En-lai, who is regarded as Liu's chief rival within the party, was tapped for a new, 4-yr. term as Premier. (NEA telephoto)

Panama Says Hired Invaders Gathering

ON WITH SEARCH—With hip boots slung over a shoulder, an FBI agent gets directions from a policeman at Poplarville, Miss., as the search continued for Mack C. Parker, 23, a Negro, who was beaten and dragged from his jail cell by a hooded lunch mob. Parker was to have gone on trial 2 days after his abduction on charges of raping a young white mother.

JUDGE CONDEMNNS ABDUCTION — Circuit Judge Sebe Dale speaks from the bench in his court room in Poplarville, Miss., on the abduction of Mack Charles Parker, Negro whose rape trial was to have started Monday. Judge Dale said the kidnapping by a masked band of men denied Parker a fair trial and "opened the flood gates of hate and hell upon us. The people of this county have been sinned against." ## High Wind Hits Missouri Cities Causing Damage

SIKESTON, Mo. (AP)—Winds up to 85 miles an hour struck Sikeston and nearby towns in southeast Missouri this morning, causing extensive damage.

The storm damaged the roofs of 200 or more buildings here, smashed windows, uprooted trees and severed power and telephone lines. U. S. Highway 61 through the city was blocked by trees and debris.

Similar but less extensive damage was reported at Morehouse, Dexter and New Madrid, all within a 25-mile radius of Sikeston. Hail was reported at Morehouse and Hayti.

Only one injury was reported. Mrs. Leo Mace suffered cuts when the wind broke a picture window in her home at Dexter.

The storm apparently was part of the band of turbulent weather which caused tornado scares last night. Twisters were sighted 15 miles north of Sullivan and 25 miles south of St. Louis, but neither touched the ground. Sullivan is 50 miles southwest of St. Louis and about 120 miles northwest of Sikeston.

Residents of Franklin, St. Charles, St. Louis and Jefferson Counties in Missouri were cautioned in the first warning. The second time, residents of Illinois counties Monroe, St. Clair, Randolph and Madison were warned.

Murder Trial Begins

KEYTESVILLE, Mo. (AP)—Miss Clociel Hayes, 37, of Salisbury, Mo., is the defendant in a preliminary hearing on a first degree murder charge.

She is accused of slaying Connor W. Morris, Kansas City steel worker, whose body was found in a field three miles east of Salisbury Dec. 23.

The hearing opened yesterday. Miss Hayes is serving a six-month jail sentence on a charge of receiving stolen property.

Heavy Rains Beat Down On Midwest

Thunderstorms, High Winds, Hail Hit Many Areas

Pounding rains — heaviest in years in some places — beat down on saturated sections of the Midwest Monday night and today.

Moline, Ill., was deluged by 2.73 inches of rain, the largest 24-hour amount there since October 1954.

Paw Paw, Ill., was doused by 2.97 inches. Dubuque, Iowa, 2.29, Chicago 2.13. More than an inch fell in Des Moines, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati.

Sixteen underpasses were flooded in Chicago.

Thunderstorms, high winds and hail hit many areas during the night.

But the Weather Bureau reported that the threat of tornadoes apparently was ended. Funnel clouds were sighted Monday night in Missouri and Arkansas.

Hail caused some crop damage near Sesser and Ellis Grove in southern Illinois. Lightning knocked out power temporarily in several of Chicago's northern suburbs.

The St. Louis Weather Bureau issued two alerts that tornadoes had been sighted but both were high in the air and no damage was reported. A twister passed over Clinton, Ark., and strong winds caused minor damage and injured one woman. The funnel cloud did not touch ground.

Winds up to 85 m.p.h. pounded Sikeston, in southeast Missouri, damaging an estimated 200 roofs, smashed windows and uprooted trees. Fallen trees and debris blocked U.S. Highway 61 through the city. Power and telephone lines also were disrupted. Strong winds were general throughout southeast Missouri. Dexter, New Madrid and Morehouse all reported damage from the storm. One woman was cut by flying glass in Dexter.

Downpours also were reported throughout Illinois and in sections of Missouri and Iowa. Hail also hit many areas.

The Panama government claims the movement to overthrow De la Guardia is headed and financed by Roberto Arias, son of ex-President Harmodio Arias and husband of British ballerina Margot Fonteyn. He slipped ashore on the Pacific coast 10 days ago with a small band, eluded troops for six days and finally took refuge in the Brazilian Embassy in Panama City.

Although the Panamanian government specifically did not accuse Fidel Castro's Cuban regime of complicity in the invasion plot, the preponderance of Cubans in the invasion force was highly embarrassing to Castro and his government.

Volunteers Are Sought

Multiple Sclerosis Drive Will Be Conducted Here

Sedalia will be among 33 communities in western Missouri to be included in the 1959 MS Hope Chest campaign, May 10 through June 21. The effort will be conducted from the chapter's headquarters in Kansas City, according to officials of the Kansas City Area Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

During the past year many patients throughout the chapter's area have contacted headquarters for information on patient services and research activities now in progress, according to Hartmann Goetz, general chairman. Through these calls, the Society has secured the names of many multiple sclerosis patients and in this way is able to serve communities with educational programs and direct aid.

Volunteer workers to assist in special collections and residential solicitations in Sedalia are urgently needed, Goetz said, and persons interested in helping should contact the chapter's headquarters at 208 Nichols Road, Kansas City 12, Mo., Valentine 1-3600.

Gifts received in the 1959 MS Hope Chest will be used to continue the development of various research projects to determine the cause and cure for MS, under the direction of Dr. Thomas Willmon, internationally known medical and research director for the society. Also they will provide equipment, therapy, treatment and hospitalization for multiple sclerosis patients unable to help themselves.

Multiple sclerosis is an organic disease of the central nervous system which usually attacks young adults, leaving them partially and permanently paralyzed.

Cubans Said Employed By Revolutionists

Government Official Says Present Total Of Fighters Is 400

PANAMA (AP)—Panama charged Monday night that hired fighters are massing in Cuba for more invasion attempts to overthrow President Ernesto de la Guardia.

Minister of Government Jose D. Bazan told the National Assembly two or three more invasion boatloads are being prepared in Cuba to bring to "about 400 the number of Cubans attempting to invade Panama." The government claims the Cubans are hired by Panamanian revolutionists.

Bazan indicated his information about more invaders came from three captured members of the first landing group — 32 Cubans and 4 Panamanians who landed on a deserted beach on Panama's east coast Saturday. Three were drowned in the landing, including the Panamanian commander.

Bazan said the main body of the invaders had occupied and sacked the town of Nombrie de Dios Monday after an advance of 35 miles along the coast. He gave no details of damage to the town or its people, but said National Guard troops were patrolling off the coast of the area.

Both the Panamanian and Cuban governments were trying to get the invaders to surrender without a fight. Two officers from Fidel Castro's Cuban army arrived early today from Havana to try to contact the invaders. The Cuban charge d'affaires and the Panamanian government appealed by air-dropped leaflets.

One brief skirmish was reported between National Guardsmen in two landing barges and the invasion force on the beach. The government said casualties were inflicted on the Cubans but that none of the Guard was hit.

An emergency meeting of the 21 members of the Organization of American States was called today in Washington to consider Panama's appeal for support in "resisting a foreign invasion."

Panamanian Foreign Minister Miguel Moreno said the OAS might fly a group down to study the situation.

The United States announced it is supplying Panama's 3,000-man defense force with small arms to fight off invaders. Under the U.S. Mutual Security Act, any member of the OAS is eligible for small arms, ammunition and supplies in an emergency.

The Panamanian government claims the movement to overthrow De la Guardia is headed and financed by Roberto Arias, son of ex-President Harmodio Arias and husband of British ballerina Margot Fonteyn. He slipped ashore on the Pacific coast 10 days ago with a small band, eluded troops for six days and finally took refuge in the Brazilian Embassy in Panama City.

Although the Panamanian government specifically did not accuse Fidel Castro's Cuban regime of complicity in the invasion plot, the preponderance of Cubans in the invasion force was highly embarrassing to Castro and his government.

In Missouri Legislature

Things Moving On Money Front; Not Like Administration Wanted

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Things are finally moving on the money front in the Missouri Legislature, but not in the direction the administration wanted.

This was the situation today, with less than five weeks of the session remaining and the pinch of time beginning to be felt.

1. The Senate Appropriations Committee chopped more than 26 million dollars from House approved figures and practically abandoned a capital improvements bill carrying 7 million more.

2. The Senate Ways and Means Committee once again delayed action on the House passed use tax that would produce some 8 million dollars more yearly for general revenue.

3. The same committee approved a bill to raise the 2 per cent sales tax to 2½ per cent, provided the voters approve at the 1960 general election. This would raise about 26 million, the amount estimated as necessary to finance an expanded foundation plan of state aid to schools.

As he reported the deeply slashed appropriation bills, Sen. John W. Noble (D) of Kennett made it plain most of the cuts must stand unless the assembly comes up with additional revenue.

And he hinted broadly that a withholding system of collecting the state income tax may stand a better change of passage in view of the revenue squeeze.

Meanwhile there was no sign of a letup in the opposition of Sen. Edward J. Hogan (D) of St. Louis to establishing a use tax—a 2 per cent levy like the sales tax on goods bought outside the state for use in Missouri.

He set a third hearing on the embattled bill for May 11 and said that would give the committee ample time to approve or kill it.

No hearing has been set on another House approved bill to raise liquor, beer and wine taxes.

The committee did approve a Senate bill to tax airline property in Missouri the same as railroad rolling stock is taxed. The money would go to the counties.

Symington Fails To Find Missile Base in Britain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said today he found no operational U.S. missile base in Britain although he reported Congress had been told that missiles "were sitting there and ready to go."

Symington said he visited a base, which he did not name, during a recent overseas trip. That was 10 weeks after he said a report on it had been given to Congress in January by Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Symington, mentioned as a possibility for the Democratic presidential nomination, told of the incident in a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon. Long a critic of U.S. military preparedness, Symington cited this base as part of what he called "a deliberate policy to conceal from the people the weakness of our position, and the ineptness of the administration in correcting that weakness."

He said Twining told Congress there were intermediate-range ballistic missiles in England just as effective as intercontinental missiles and that they were "sitting there and ready to go."

"Ten weeks after that statement was made to the Congress," Symington said, "I visited that IRBM base of ours in England which was nearest to completion."

"There was nothing 'ready to go.'"

Minister Sentenced For Grand Larceny

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A former Methodist minister who said he committed burglaries to raise money for a fresh start in life has been sentenced to five years in prison for grand larceny.

Judge L. A. Grayson sentenced Byrd Alexander Geiger, 41, Monday. Geiger admitted he broke into 18 business establishments and schools.

He told police he pawned some of the items he stole to pay off debts and to have money for a new start in another city.

Geiger's wife Elizabeth, 36, pleaded guilty to a charge of participating in one of the break-ins. Grayson referred her to presentence probation investigation. The ex-preacher's stepson, Charles Long, 16, admitted taking part in some of the burglaries and was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Program Of Flood Control Catching On

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department's program for limiting and preventing stream flooding is catching on across the nation.

For many years, department experts had argued that much could be done to prevent floods if measures were taken upstream to hold back water that falls as rain or runs off as melting snow. They suggested a series of small dams and other devices to slow runoff of water. Finally, in 1954 Congress enacted the Watershed and Flood Prevention Act. This act authorizes the department to provide local units with aid in drafting proper plans for slowing water in a given area.

Already 1,300 local organizations in 47 states and Puerto Rico have applied for aid under this act. Work plans have been completed for 154 watershed projects.

The department says its program fills a gap between the flood control program on major rivers carried out by Army Engineers and the soil conservation program on farms carried out by the department.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The perennial battle against crop destroying insects is getting under way again.

The Agriculture Department's Pest Control Division reported today outbreaks of grasshoppers in some sections of California, cutworms in Alabama, greenbugs in Texas, Hessian Fly in Nebraska, the chinch bug in Texas and Kansas, the army cutworm in Nebraska and the corn earworm in Arkansas.

Most of these insects damage grain crops.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm and trade experts from five wheat exporting countries are meeting here this week to explore ways of using more surplus wheat to help backward areas.

The countries are Argentina, Australia, Canada, France and the United States.

They are laying the groundwork for a "Food for Peace" conference to be held here May 5-6 with officials of cabinet and ministerial rank.

The conference is the outgrowth of President Eisenhower's promise last January to try to make food an "instrument for a durable peace."

Packaging Of Foods Is Discussed

The Monteanu County Agriculture Extension Council met on Tuesday evening, April 21, at the Methodist Church, California. The 14 council members from seven townships were hosts to their families and guests with a basket dinner. Each council member invited a couple from town to be their guests.

E. O. Renken, president of the council, called the group of fifty council members and guests to order. Ralph Walling returned the blessing. After dinner Ted Joule, marketing specialist from the College of Agriculture, presented a program on marketing with emphasis on poultry.

Joule pointed out the tremendous change in our buying habits at the grocery store. This change has been necessary because about one-third of all married women now work and time is a limiting factor. So, we buy more pre-cooked foods in fancy packages.

Joule showed the group by use of view-graph that in 1940 the packaging and merchandising cost of food was nine million dollars. By 1957 this cost had risen to 34 million dollars. We are asking for and buying more services at the grocery store. The producer, he stated, must produce what the consumer wants or his product will not move. It is becoming more important that it be well packaged and displayed.

Joule told the group that recent studies showed that the housewife was more concerned about the quality, freshness and nutritional value of the food she bought. She is more concerned about these than she is about the price and taste.

Who will produce all this high quality food? The efficiency in agriculture has grown by extreme swiftness. In 1914 one farmer produced food for himself and seven others. Today he produces food for himself and 24 others. By 1975, he will produce food for himself and 34 others. With this change in living habits of rural people, it is hard to tell rural families from urban families. We all tend to have the same living habits.

Joule concluded his program by showing how to cut up a broiler chicken to have fewer bone cuts and more meaty cuts. He also demonstrated a new method in displaying a chicken that had been cut up ready to prepare.

The art of barbecuing chickens was discussed and the methods of cutting chickens for barbecuing was shown the group.

Convicts Fail In Suicide Plunge

WALPOLE, Mass. (AP) — Two convicts with records of barbarity were in prison hospital today, seriously injured after an unsuccessful joint suicide plunge Monday in State prison.

One of the pair, Charles W. McNeil, 37, is serving a life term — a death sentence was commuted — for wantonly shooting to death an insurance salesman after robbing him as the victim knelt pleading for mercy. The latter, Leo F. Monfet, 37, had given the hitch-hiking McNeil a lift.

McNeil's prison pal and companion in the 25-foot intended death leap from a third tier, Walter L. Nason, 20, pistol-whipped a woman shopkeeper he tried to rob before two policemen surprised him and won a shooting duel.

One officer was nicked in a shoulder. Nason quit when shot in a knee. He is serving 12 to 15 years for assault with intent to murder the woman and police.

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Authorities fear that children may be playing with deadly Civil War shells carted away from Ft. Sumter during the weekend.

The shells, dug up by workmen last week, can be touched off by a spark, heat, friction or a shock. About 50 shells were found, and the ammunition was to have been stored Monday.

But the shells were gone when workmen arrived. W. L. Luckett, superintendent of Ft. Sumter National Monument, said 14 of the shells were turned in by parents who found their children playing with the ammunition.

Three Graduate From Camp Branch School

Graduation exercises were held at Camp Branch School on April 23, at which time diplomas were presented to Karen Sue Rissler, Ralph Wayne Linhardt and Virginia Lee Orty, members of the graduating class. The diplomas were presented by Otis Fiedler with a short acceptance speech for the class by Virginia Lee Orty.

A contributive supper, which was attended by a large crowd, was followed by a program in the form of an operetta, "The Little Red Hen," presented by the school under the direction of the teacher, Mrs. A. M. Harris.

The graduation exercises opened with "Thank You" by Ralph Wayne Linhardt and a reading, "Chronicles" by Karen Sue Rissler.

The invocation was given by the Rev. A. F. Klemme, pastor of the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church, who also gave the commencement address.

The audience then sang: "Blest Be The Tie," after which the benediction was given by the pupils of the school.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT—Sedalia, Mo., Tues., Apr. 25, 1959 3

Cosmetologists See Demonstrations By Guest Artists

The Sedalia Cosmetologists' Association met Monday evening, April 20, at the Old Missouri Homestead with the president John Strine, presiding.

The highlight of the meeting was the demonstrations given by the guest artists, Mr. and Mrs. George Heavilin of Kansas City. Mr. Heavilin is a member of the National Official Hair Fashion Committee, the Missouri Educational Committee and is owner of the Heavilin School of Hair Fashion and Cosmetology in Kansas City.

The guest artists demonstrated the new trend for spring. It is called the "Sweetheart", with a beautiful rolling motion directed from a pivot point in the high crown, forward toward the face, ending with extra fullness but softness about the face. Mr. Heavilin also showed high fashion combing on Mrs. Heavilin's hair, which was the new shade of petal pink platinum. Mrs. Betty Davis, of Sedalia, was the model for the "Sweetheart" demonstration.

Frieda Jost, secretary, called the roll with 23 members present. There were 36 guests with five new members joining the association that evening.

New Letters Of Credit

For a long, long time, prize athletes in school and college have been strutting about in thick sweaters with the school letter emblazoned thereon. Letter winners have been a kind of campus elite, generally looked up to by students and outsiders alike.

But at Asbury Park (N. J.) high school, and maybe some other spots here and there, it's different now.

The other night 81 Asbury Park students filed on stage to get varsity "A's" and not one of them was being rewarded for athletic excellence. For these were scholarship awards.

To get their varsity letters, these youngsters had to maintain scholastic averages of 90 or better. Some of the seniors who had maintained high-level performance for nearly four years also got trophies.

This is so refreshing and sensible that it ought to recommend itself to schools and colleges all over the country.

In the strict sense it is a "device," but what does it matter if the net effect is to rivet attention on scholastic achievement and inspire students to strive for its rewards?

Big Operations Hire AEC Officials

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON — It takes an expert at jigsaw puzzles to follow all the operations of Adm. Lewis Strauss and his friends in the field of atomic energy. But the pieces when put together form a revealing picture. The picture is one of favoritism for certain big corporations and such an intimate interchange of atomic energy officials with these corporations that it's difficult to ascertain where government interest stopped and private interest started.

Most interesting part of the jigsaw puzzle is that regarding a gas-cooled atomic reactor. This is the revolutionary peacetime atomic plant to be used for the generation of electricity, for merchant ships and the atomic airplane. For some years Admiral Strauss, as head of the Atomic Energy Commission, opposed development of a gas-cooled reactor. He stalled so long that he let the British get far ahead of us.

The Congressional atomic watchdog committee kept needing him and even introduced legislation requiring him to build a gas-cooled atomic reactor. But Admiral Strauss was adamant. As late as Aug. 3, 1957, he wrote Congressman Sterling Cole (R., N.Y.): "The Commission's inclusion of this project in the bill."

Finally, on June 26, 1958, four days before he left office, Strauss awarded a contract for a gas-cooled reactor to be built by General Dynamics for an atomic merchant ship. He let the contract under interesting circumstances.

In the first place, 18 companies submitted proposals. Second, General Dynamics had had no experience with atomic reactors but got the contract. There were no competitive bids. Third, some of Strauss's friends went to work for General Dynamics. Here is the roll call:

Dr. Frederic De Hoffmann, close associate to Dr. Edward Teller, both of whom were always available to back up Strauss policies, had been hired by General Dynamics.

C. Arthur Rolander, a special attorney used by Strauss in the purge of Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, was hired by General Dynamics as representative in Washington right after the contract was let.

Everett Hollis, Strauss's former public relations adviser in the AEC, has now gone to work for General Dynamics.

W. Kenneth Davis, head of the atomic reactor program under Strauss, left the AEC to take a job with the Bechtel Corporation, which together with General Dynamics received an important contract from the AEC to build an entire atomic power plant for Philadelphia Electric and a gas-cooled reactor as part of it.

General Dynamics Gets Two

Thus General Dynamics got two gas-cooled reactor contracts, one for a merchant ship, the other for Philadelphia Electric and associated companies. Significantly, it got the contracts only after Admiral Strauss had opposed building any gas-cooled reactors and had resisted all pressure by the Congressional watchdog committee to build them.

Only after General Dynamics got into the picture did Strauss decide to reverse his previous policy. By that time Britain was far ahead of the United States.

However, the British obligingly traded us gas-cooled reactor secrets for atomic submarine secrets. Obliging also, the AEC Department, then under Kenneth Davis, gave General Dynamics access to this British secret research. The company thus gained an important advantage over its competitors.

Admiral Strauss had left the AEC by the time the second reactor contract was let to the Philadelphia electric combine. This turned out to be a very happy arrangement for those who were friendly to the powers that be in the Atomic Energy Commission.

What made it happy was that the Bechtel Corporation got the contract for building the over-all power plant for Philadelphia Electric, while General Dynamics got the $14,500,000 contract to build the gas-cooled reactor to go into the power plant.

And, of course, John McCone, the man Admiral Strauss picked to succeed him as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, had been head of the Bechtel Corporation, while Kenneth Davis, former head of the AEC's reactor program, had gone to work for Bechtel. By intriguing coincidence these men and these companies all found themselves working together on the most important power project in postwar history.

Illegal Contract?
What made it all the more intriguing was the fact that the AEC's legal division had declared the whole Bechtel-General Dynamics project for the Philadelphia Electric Combine illegal.

In a memo dated Jan. 2, 1959, the AEC general counsel's office warned: "Based upon technical evaluation of the proposal of the Philadelphia Electric Company for the design, construction and operation of a gas-cooled power reactor, I am of the opinion that the Philadelphia Electric proposal deviates from the statutory criteria. . . I am of the opinion that there is substantial doubt as to AEC's authority to enter into a cooperative arrangement with Philadelphia Electric Company on the basis of the proposal."

Yet Chairman McCone ignored this legal opinion and went ahead with the contract benefitting his former company.

Meanwhile, working for Bechtel, Davis dramatically reversed his opinion of gas-cooled reactors. As Strauss's spokesman on atomic reactors, he had disapproved and deprecated the gas-cooled design as long as the watchdog committee wanted General Electric to build it under Admiral Rickover. Once the contract was in the hands of General Dynamics and Bechtel, however, Davis began singing a different tune. All of a sudden, he realized the value of gas-cooled reactors.

This is part of the jigsaw puzzle of Admiral Strauss and friends in the Atomic Energy Commission.

A Curve Is A Curve

The baseball season is here and even the United States Government has come out officially with the statement that a baseball really curves. The maximum curve a pitcher can expect to throw is 17.5 inches and the important thing about the pitch is the spin and not the speed.

This significant observation comes straight out of a pitcher's pitch pipe from the Department of Commerce. The pipe is Dr. Lyman J. Briggs, an 84-year-old former Michigan State outfielder, before the turn of the century. He is now director emeritus of the National Bureau of Standards and director of research for the National Geographic Society. He has conducted many experiments with baseballs and golf balls. He says the ideal spin for a baseball is 1,800 revolutions per minute and a good professional pitcher can make the ball spin that many times or at the rate of 68 miles per hour.

So, from the Little Leaguers to the Big Leaguers, if they want to be experts in pitching, take Dr. Briggs' advice and learn to pitch the spin.

If, however, the baseball pitcher has a scientific bend he might contribute some of his spinning to atomic energy research, like Dr. Briggs who related his spinning theories to important findings in aerodynamics.

No Soothing Syrup In Events Ahead

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's no soothing syrup in the events ahead. The thing to look for is whether Nikita Khrushchev can do the Western Allies any more damage than he's already done.

With no more expense than the wind it took for some speeches and statements he split the Allies a bit on how to handle his demands for a "free" West Berlin, a peace treaty with the two Germans, and a few other things.

The Allied reaction ranged from don't-budge-an-inch stand of France and Germany and the stern American hold-the-fort attitude to the flexibility advocated by Britain.

Today the four Allies' foreign ministers — including Secretary of State Christian A. Herter — gather in Paris to decide how they will answer the Soviets when they meet with them May 11 in Geneva.

The Geneva session is supposed to be preliminary to a summit meeting.

No doubt the Allies in Paris this week will iron out their differences — so far as is visible, anyway — if for no other reason than because they have to.

They can't afford to be obviously divided when they sit down with the Soviets in May. It would not only mean a Khrushchev victory but might cause an irreparable split among the Allies.

It's quite likely the Allies will come out of their Geneva talks in good shape — in the sense of being lined up together on whatever answers they have for the Soviets.

The real test of their solidarity will come at the summit. The unpredictable Khrushchev may have already conjured up summit proposals intended not to get solutions but to split the Allies wide open.

A great many explanations have been offered as to why Khrushchev last November first made his demands.

For instance, it has been suggested that he wanted to distract the West while communism was taking over Iraq in the Middle East; that he somehow hoped to neutralize West Germany and thus clinch his grip, without worry, on the satellites.

All these things may have been in his thinking but it's possible he also thought something like this: "I can't lose by making demands. If I don't get any place, I won't be worse off than I am now. But maybe I can find some weak spots in the Western alliance, create differences, weaken it a bit."

One of the weak spots, of course, is a natural, human desire among West Europeans to avoid a crisis which might lead to war with the Soviet Union which seems at the moment capable of blasting Western Europe off the map with missiles.

It is also natural that the various groups of West Europeans would vary — as they seem to be doing — in their reaction to Soviet demands and pressure.

No wonder, then, that the West, including the United States, has been on the defensive in this situation with Khrushchev. It has not once sought to take the initiative away from him.

It has sought, instead, how to answer him. He may be able to do damage at the summit if — in order to split the Allies — he makes concessions to one of the Allies that seem repulsive to another.

New Plans Increase Scope Of Banks' Personal Loans

By FAYE HENLE

Are you sure you have chosen the best type of personal loan?

If you have not already asked yourself this question you probably will, if you plan to borrow in coming months you may be amazed to discover how many new personal credit plans banks have devised.

In many of our larger cities you may soon find there are some half dozen plans to choose from. Executives of the American Bankers Association tell me they can barely keep count of the inquiries they receive daily from bankers around the country about these plans and of the announcements they receive of plans in force.

"Why all these new personal loan devices?" I queried. I wanted to know whether banks are making it easier or cheaper for you and me to borrow. Here's what I was told.

The new loan devices are an extension of bank services.

It is not any easier to get a personal loan than formerly. The three Cs of credit are still exercised by bankers with vigilance. In case you've forgotten they are character, capacity to repay your loan and competence.

Nor have personal bank loans become cheaper. In fact, some of the new loan devices make it more expensive for you to borrow.

But the new methods provide a great deal more in the way of convenience and this is their great selling point. One visit to a bank — sometimes just a credit application by mail — and, if your record of repayment, and employment is good, you can be assured years of open credit of the sort formerly extended only to business.

When a fellow gets married, the low of supply and demand often becomes the low of demand and supply.

Many of the new credit plans can be used by you when you are traveling or during non-banking hours. They save you the inconvenience of downtown parking. They make it possible for you to operate your financial program on an annual basis.

What are some of these new devices?

In growing use is a check credit plan. Here you and your banker decide how much you can repay monthly. Depending upon this, the bank extends a line of credit, then furnishes you with a check book. If for instance you can repay $20 monthly, a bank usually will allow you $400 credit. Say you've a $100 dentist bill to pay. You can pay your dentist $100 by check and repay the bank in monthly installments of $20 due any day of the month that you choose. As long as your payments are constant, you can keep borrowing up to your $400 limit. Every time you make a payment it is added to the amount against which you can borrow.

Another popular plan is the charge account device. When your credit has been checked the bank issues you a charge-a-plate much like the ones used by department stores. This charge-a-plate is good at stores that have agreed to honor it. In effect, these stores mail your bills to the bank and you pay all of these with a single check.

The charge for the service to the merchant usually runs 5 to 6 per cent discount of total sales and if you default in payment within a stipulated period, which may run from 30 to 90 days depending upon variations in the plan, you'll owe 1 to 1½ per cent per month on the unpaid balance.

There are a great many variations to both these plans and you should inquire into them so that you will know exact charges, the amounts of time allowed for repayment and such. Irrespective, however, of the convenience of the new plans, if what you are after is a substantial loan, say for a new car, the old-type discounted personal loan, probably will prove less expensive.

Jobs for Head Counters

Preliminary Work on 1960 Census Starts This Fall

By Robert E. Hennessey
Of our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Starting next fall and continuing through much of 1960, the U.S. Census Bureau will have temporary jobs galore in Missouri for persons wanting to count heads.

Officials preparing for the prodigious chore of taking the 10-year census estimate that some 3200 jobs will become available in the state, although not all at once.

Over 1300 people will be needed in the fall for the agriculture census, which will continue through December. This census will come up with all those myriad farm facts on which future planning and legislation will be based.

The population and housing census will be taken next April. This work will offer jobs to about 4000 persons in Missouri including 3880 enumerators, 245 crew leaders, and 10 supervisors.

Nationwide, the population census will take about 170,000 people, each of whom will earn $12 to $15.50 a day and will work from two to four weeks. The agriculture census will use another 25,000, who will get the same pay for four to eight weeks work.

(The U.S. Census office advises all those desiring work to apply directly to the local field assistants and not to Washington.)

This will be the biggest counting ever undertaken and will range from people to basements. Some old questions that will not be asked this time and some new questions thrown in, reflect the material progress of the American people.

For instance, people no longer will be asked about kitchen sinks, electricity and refrigerators. Virtually everyone now has those items, so there is little reason to count them.

New items added include: elevators, air conditioning, food freezers, clothes dryers, bathrooms, bedrooms, basements and the number of autos for personal use.

Greater use will be made this time of the sampling type of census for most items. But not for people. They have to be counted because of congressional reapportionment which is based on these figures.

Final figures on how many of us there are will be tabulated before December 31, 1960. When the total is known, the Secretary of Commerce will pick up a telephone and call the President to give him the formal word. The expected total: about 181 million. The cost of counting: $118 million. Results: 100,000 pages of reports. Almost 1,000 miles of microfilm will be come the permanent record.

Dr. Jordan Says

Age, Health and 'Condition' Ought to Temper Exercise

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Healthy people ought to use their muscles if they want to treat their bodies in the way intended by nature. The circulation is better, the digestion and bowel elimination work better, and probably all of the other various functions of the human tissues and organs behave better if appropriate physical exercise is taken.

Far too many people take little or no exercise during the winter. Thus their muscles and circulation lack the stimulation provided by exercise during a good part of the year.

A second mistake by starting out on the first pleasant day of spring by trying to make up for lost time is also common. Several strenuous sets of tennis after seven or eight months of desk work can be truly dangerous.

How much exercise a person should take to maintain the best possible health is not easy to say. However, the strenuous athletics all right for a young man of 18 or 20 can harm the rapidly growing boy of 13 or the man of 40.

Age is one of the factors to take into consideration when considering exercise.

The greatest amount of physical exertion can undoubtedly be taken by young men in full maturity, usually from about 18 to 25. Even at these ages, however, it is possible to overdo, especially for the man who is not "in training." As one correspondent wrote me, scholastic sports should be for amusement and not so strenuously conducted as to injure the heart. After the late 20s there is a gradual decrease in the tolerance to strenuous physical exertion, although of course the ability is tremendously influenced by practice and "condition."

The sex also influences the amount and kind of physical exercise desirable. There are certain types of exercise which women can stand better than men.

For example, most women can stay in cold water longer than men because they have a larger amount of fat under the skin which serves as insulating material. The muscles of women, however, are not as a rule so well developed as those of men and their organs are so arranged that certain types of physical exertion are frequently undesirable.

The general health of the individual is an obvious but frequently overlooked factor in deciding about exercise. In practically all forms of heart disease, the amount of exercise has to be decreased. Exercise after an illness or operation must be approached gradually, as the muscles have become flabby and need to be re-conditioned.

The general physical condition should, therefore, always be one of the items weighed in choosing the kind and amount of exercise.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

NINE BILLION $'S — Nine billion $'s would buy three million automobiles at 3,000 $'s each.

There is a great hue and cry about overcrowded schools. Nine billion $'s would build 3,000 high schools, at three million $'s each.

It is claimed that there is desperate need for more hospitals for the physically sick, mentally ill and crippled children.

Well, nine billion $'s would build 1,800 hospitals, at five million $'s each—one for every second county in the U.S.A.

How about housing, slum tenements? Nine billion $'s would build 600,000 homes, at 15,000 $'s each—enough to house 2,400,000 people, at four to a family.

And think how many jobs would come alive in building these houses, hospitals, schools and automobiles!

But where is the nine billion $'s? I know where it is. It is locked up, lying idle in farm surpluses in Government warehouses, costing one million $'s a day in storage charges, or a third of a billion a year.

This idle money in farm surpluses is bigger than ever before, after 40 years of "solving the farm problem."

And it is getting bigger every time you heave a sigh for the good old days.

This economic insanity surely proves that Washington, D.C., is our only insane asylum run entirely by its inmates.

Paraphrasing Lincoln: Will government of the people, by the pressure blocs, and for the pressure blocs perish from the earth?

NEWTON (Iowa) NEWS: Inflation—What Is It?—In Korea a man needs 360,000 won to buy a $60 camera. That same man needs 1,000 won to buy 12 cents worth of food.

There was a time when a won equaled 10 cents, ten of them to the American dollars. Now 6,000 equal a dollar. It would be higher still if the American government had not pegged the price at this point.

What does this mean to us? It means that inflation could cause us to buy a 10 cent candy bar with a $100 bill. It seems remote? Not at all. Remember when hamburgers were 10 cents and pork and beans a nickel a can? That wasn't too long ago.

Inflation is with us now. Runaway inflation, however, could ruin us.

Swiss Bankers Make Good In International Banking

Editor's note: Why do Swiss banks hide the identity of their depositors? Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, has the answer in this dispatch from Geneva today. Dawson is touring Europe.

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Swiss bankers are making a good thing today out of international banking and stock buying for anonymous clients.

But the Swiss aren't too happy about some of the consequences, such as conflicts with the American government and the watchdogs over American securities markets because Swiss law veils all their depositors in secrecy.

Bankers here are particularly bitter about three charges well rooted in the American public's mind:

1. That the banks often don't know who is making use of them — possibly even the Communists.
2. That the banks vote proxies on American stocks they hold for anonymous clients engaged in raiding U.S. corporations.
3. That the banks offer Americans a chance to evade U.S. income taxes.

Top executives of the three largest Swiss banks have said in interviews that all Swiss banks refuse any deposits until they know who the client is and have checked on him thoroughly. This is true, they say, even when the account is carried on the bank's book as a number rather than a name (to give the depositor further secrecy from the banks clerical staff).

But American officials point out that a known depositor could be acting as a cover-up for someone else. The Swiss reply that such a person could act similarly for another in dealing with brokerage firms in the United States.

The Swiss law forbidding banks to name depositors was passed Nov. 8, 1934. The Swiss say it was because in the years of bank shakiness a bank failure might ruin a depositor if his name were revealed.

Because of charges of corporate raiding through proxy voting, two years ago the Swiss Bankers Assn. secretly directed all its members: If a depositor asks you to vote his proxies against corporate management, tell him he must avow the shares openly and vote them in his own name.

American officials agree that all respectable Swiss bankers are following this directive. They say only a few shady banks may be doing otherwise now. They add that in a recent securities scandal in the United States (involving Alexander Gutermuth) the only Swiss bank mentioned was owned by an American.

Top Swiss bank officials insist that they never vote corporate proxies held by their agencies in the United States.

Relief Rolls Are Steady In Nation

By CONRAD FINK
Associated Press Writer

State and county relief rolls, long a barometer for general economic conditions, are generally holding steady throughout the nation.

An Associated Press survey indicates that with a few exceptions there have been no large increases or decreases in recent months in the number of persons depending upon welfare agencies for existence.

Kentucky, with its chronic coal field unemployment, is an exception. Louisville alone dropped 3,600 families from relief rolls in April because funds ran out.

Michigan, a state with big financial as well as unemployment problems, shows signs of having difficulty meeting welfare obligations.

Detroit, with 16,000 families on relief and an annual welfare budget of eight million dollars, ran out of money last January. The state has been picking up the tab.

Highly industrialized Genesee County, 60 miles north of Detroit, is paying out about $250,000 a month in relief and debating new taxation to make an additional $1,200,000 available annually.

Helen Smith, welfare director of rural Antrim County, 200 miles northwest of Detroit, characterizes the effort to reduce welfare rolls.

She advised relief recipients: All able bodied persons will be dropped; drinkers are barred. Every family is expected to grow a vegetable garden to supplement relief.

Relief applications in the District of Columbia increased more than predicted this year—23,856 individuals applied. The estimate was 20,604.

Welfare officials cut payments 15 per cent and requested additional funds to add to the relief appropriation of $5,698,902. The 1958 appropriation was $4,357,902. Texas with 191,500 unemployed in February reported no large change in relief rolls. However, more persons are receiving surplus commodities this year than

Motorist Spends 30 Hours Waiting for Traffic Lights

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One reason the average motorist sees red: He spends 30 hours a year merely waiting for traffic lights to change.

If you plan to visit Mars this year, take along your own jug. All the water vapor on that dry planet equals no more than could be found in a box of earthly air two feet wide, two feet long and 10 feet deep.

Only one man in every seven and one woman in five have read the Bible all the way through.

A news item mentions that jujitsu classes are now open to children, too. "Of course, you can go to the movies tonight, junior—if you'll just let daddy out of this headlock!"

In Greenwich Village now a beard is known as "a Castro cut."

Survival hint to bridegrooms: You can make charred pieces of toast at least partially more edible by rubbing them together briskly—when your bride isn't looking.

Our quotable notables: "Traditions are like lamp posts," said Viscount Hailsham. "wise men use them to guide their paths. Drunkards use them to support their instability."

last — 143,283 in March 1959, as compared to 111,283 in March 1958.

In the far West, the San Francisco County Public Welfare Department said, "There's nothing unusual going on in California."

Denver officials reported the monthly average of general assistance cases this year at 1,078. Last year it was 1,076.

Utah's relief rolls are holding steady but the number of employable persons on relief is dropping because of spring job opportunities.

Among states reporting no significant changes were Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Wyoming, Mississippi, West Virginia, North Dakota, South Dakota, Washington, Iowa, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Ranch Estate Left To Mail Carrier

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — A court settlement approved Monday gives a Martinez mail carrier $116,776 and a $16,000 ranch from the estate of a retired Richmond school teacher the carrier had known since he was a boy.

The postman, Louis Bartolomei, 54, is the principal heir of the estate of Miss Emily Neukom who died last year. Miss Neukom, after leaving various small bequests, bequeathed the rest of her $148,211 on a share-alike basis to Bartolomei and Ralph Wight, a Martinez attorney. Wight died two years ago however, and Mrs. Neukom didn't change her will. She left no relatives, so Superior Court Judge H. Donovan approved a settlement giving Bartolomei Wight's share, too.

Bartolomei spent his free time for years working on Miss Neukom's Vine Hill ranch near Martinez. He inherits the place.

Dodgers Take A One-Game Lead Monday

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Virtually no one but the other players in the National League considered the Los Angeles Dodgers a threat for the pennant. And even the players would shrug when they explained that the Dodgers "were too good to be seventh last year."

So who's in first? The Dodgers.

They made it a one-game lead Monday night, whipping Pittsburgh 9-3 with a five-run first inning. That supplied all the cushion Don Drysdale needed to beat the Pirates for the first time since 1957.

It was the lanky right-hander's third consecutive victory after his first decision and he did it with a six-hitter.

That was the only game played in the majors Monday. Only two others were scheduled, both in the NL, and both were postponed by rain.

Manager Fred Haney's planned benching of left fielder Wes Covington and shortstop Johnny Logan was shelved when his defending champion Milwaukee Braves had to call off their game with the Chicago Cubs. The San Francisco Giants, in third place but only a game shy of the Dodgers along with the second place Braves, also were idled by rain at Philadelphia.

The Dodgers, with Gil Hodges the only holdover from the old guard in the line-up, chased winless George Witt, the sophomore who figured predominantly in Pittsburgh's pennant plans, before he retired a man. That left the young right-hander with an 0-3 record and put the Pirates seventh, four games off the pace.

Witt, again troubled by a painful elbow this spring, walked the first two men he faced, then left after Wally Moon beat out an infield hit and Don Demeter lined a two-run single. Don Zimmer also singled home a pair and Drysdale singled home another before reliever Ron Blackburn retired the side.

Hodges tripled home a run in the fourth for the Dodgers, who had 11 hits, and they counted another in the fifth on a single by Charlie Neal, his second of the night and the last in a string of seven he began Sunday in St. Louis.

That gave Drysdale a 7-0 lead before the Pirates bunched three hits for a sixth-inning run, on Smokey Burgess' double. They got their other two in the ninth, on another Burgess double, two walks and a pair of outs before Drysdale ended it by making Ramon Mejias his seventh strikeout victim.

Dual Golf Event Won by Kewpies Over S-C Tigers

The Smith-Cotton golfers played a dual match on the Country Club golf course Monday, bowing to the Columbia team, 9½ to 2½.

Smith-Cotton was similarly defeated in a quadrangular match in Jefferson City last week when the team met Rolla, Jefferson City and Columbia. At that meet they were not far off the pace of Rolla, winner of the event, and they had defeated Jefferson City earlier in the year.

Coach Edmondson, leaning on these facts, expects good showing from the boys at the conference meet Monday at Jefferson City.

In yesterday's game, Charles Patterson shot a 41-40-81, dropping three points to Williams of Columbia, 39-37-76. Loy Holman, shooting a 42-36-78, grabbed one point while giving Stone, 38-37-75, two points. Jamie Anderson, shooting way off his average, shot a 49-46-95, giving all three points to Baird, 46-41-89, and Pete Lammy, 47-51-98, split total points with his opponent, Garrison, 43-55-98, 1½ to 1½.

Sedalia travels to Columbia Thursday for a rematch.

Patterson-London Prepared For Friday Night Title Bout

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Patterson has been called the "unknown champion" often of late. When he hears about it he must laugh to himself. He probably would laugh out loud if he were the type.

For with his title defense against England's Brian London this Friday night, the heavyweight king's earnings in less than seven years of pro fighting will go over a million dollars.

From that Sept. 12 night in 1952 when he collected $75 for his first pro fight right through his last effort on Aug. 18, 1958, when he stopped Roy Harris, the quiet, mannerly Patterson has earned $904,000 in the ring.

Of course Uncle Sam and Manager Cus D'Amato got their cuts but it still left a good chunk for the once retarded youth.

This city is doing its share to help the bundles-for-Patterson movement. The 24-year-old champion figures to earn in the neighborhood of $200,000 including the television fee, against the lowly regarded Briton.

Indianapolis won this fight almost as an after-thought and is doing its utmost to make it a hit. They may scorn the fight in England and elsewhere, but here they are taking it dead serious. It's the first championship fight for the city.

In less than two weeks close to $80,000 has been taken in at the box office. The fight may draw $125,000, which would put it in the black.

London, a cliff-jawed, 24-year-old husky, has made a lot of friends here. He has gone out of his way to be pleasant, much to the astonishment of the big British press corps.

The six-foot, 206-pound Briton has looked fair in his workouts. He showed fast hands in his drills with Dusty Rhodes. The latter used to be Patterson's sparring partner.

Both London and Patterson expect to wind up their boxing with today's workout. Patterson's punching was real fast Monday.

The six-foot, 182-pound champion floored sparring partner Thomas in the first round with a right to the jaw followed by a sizzling left-right combination to the head.

"I feel fast and sharp," said Patterson.

"Floyd wouldn't make any flat prediction. He doesn't low-rate London and the odds mean nothing to him.

"He was the British champion and he ranks No. 4 now," said Floyd.

Manager Admits Situation No Fun

DETROIT (AP) — Bill Norman admits that if he were not the manager of the Detroit Tigers, the club's early season miseries would be pitiful to the point of being funny.

"But I am the manager," the harried Norman added quickly. "I can't laugh, ridiculous as things sometimes have been. Things ain't funny at all."

Norman is far from ready to concede anything, and he says not a player has given any indication that the team's 1-12 record is producing quitters.

"It's almost amazing how these guys are holding up," Norman said. "I have a lot of respect for my troops. They are giving me 100 per cent and more. I know it sounds awfully stale but we're going to get rolling."

The Tigers have a chance to end their second six-game losing streak of the young season tonight when they meet the Baltimore Orioles at Briggs Stadium.

Norman has changed the batting order more times than he cares to count and he was switched left fielders and first basemen without coming up with a regular at either spot.

"Nothing works," he said. "It looks like we are snake-bit. It's really frustrating when you have three guys among the batting leaders and still win only once in 13 tries."

Casey Tibbs To Compete At J Bar H

DENVER, Colo. — (Special)—Casey Tibbs, Nemo, S.D., who will compete at the J Bar H Rodeo at Camdenton, July 4 through 11, won the toughest bronc riding of the spring rodeo season at the Red Bluff, California Round-Up, Sunday to move into the lead for the world's saddle-bronc championship he has already won more often than any man in history.

Tibbs, five-time champion bronc rider, won the last two out of three go rounds at Red Bluff to win a total of $653, enough to put him into the lead for the 1959 championship.

In the process, he scored the highest marked ride of the rodeo, marking 183 on the Christensen Brothers bronc, Crowfoot.

The Red Bluff Round-Up, the first major rodeo in a month, paid off a total of $16,650, including entry fees, making it the biggest two-day rodeo so far this season.

Round-Up fans are the most avid bronc riding enthusiasts on the West Coast, who top several bucking strings for a blue ribbon draw of broncs and add a third more money to the bronc riding purse than they put in the other events.

The added money traditionally draws all the top bronc stompers from the U.S. and Canada.

The Red Bluff bronc lovers got their money's worth this year. War Paint, bucking horse of the year the past three seasons, took a hand in the finals of the contest and started another string of buck-offs with an impressive victory.

Dodger Manager Says Team Was Shamed Into Good Playing

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Walt Alston, manager of the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, says he suspects his team was shamed into playing good ball this season.

"No one likes to finish seventh," Alston said, referring to the Dodgers' showing last year. "Yes, I would say the boys' pride was somewhat hurt."

So far the Dodgers have won 10 games while losing 5.

Alston was a willing talker after watching the red-hot Dodgers beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 9-3 Monday night to increase their league lead to a full game over the idle Milwaukee Braves.

"Basically," he said, "this team is better than the one I had last year. It has better balance and the spirit is wonderful."

"The boys worked hard to get in shape this spring," Alston said. "I'd like to think that's the real answer for our fine start."

Alston said his pitching staff may be another reason for the early season spurt. He said:

"Last year we opened the season with three sore-armed pitchers. There was nothing like that this season."

"If we continue to play this kind of ball, we stand a good chance for a first-division finish."

The rank pinto gelding flattened Tom Teschler, Sentinel Butte, N. D., who had won the first go round and had stood fifth for the saddle bronc championship. It was the champion horse's first contest appearance this season.

The pinto was ridden to the 10-second whistle only twice in 28 tries during 1958 before he was ridden in a special match of champions by reigning bronc riding king Marty Wood, Bowness, Alberta, at Denver last January.

Wood and others of the small Canadian contingent of bronc riding specialists who had been grabbing off a more-than-equal share of the prize money at major U.S. rodeos this year, got their come-uppance at Red Bluff. The Canadians were shut out by the U.S. hands, winning not a nickel in prize money for the first time this year.

One bronc rider lost more than his entry fees. Bob Aber-Sentinel Butte, N.D., was hospitalized for six weeks with a broken neck after bucking off a saddle bronc. Doctors who reported Aber's condition as good, would not say when the Dakota rider would be able to ride again.

Thomas May Resume Jump Training

BOSTON (AP)—Surgeons say that if things go as expected John Thomas, world record high jumper, may be able to resume training—and possibly competition—late this spring.

Thomas, Boston University freshman, underwent a skin graft operation Monday in which almost eight square inches of skin was taken from his thigh and stitched close to an unhealed wound on his left foot.

Thomas was injured March 24 when his foot was caught in the door of an elevator.

Negro Acquitted Of Assault Charge

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP)—A Negro has been acquitted of a charge of assault with intent to murder a white taxicab driver following a dispute over a taxi fare.

An all-white Russell Circuit Court jury found Gussie Lee Patterson innocent Monday.

Willie Bob Edwards, testified Patterson refused to pay a $1 fare after a three-mile drive, drew a knife and pointed it at his throat.

Patterson said he paid Edwards $1.25 on entering the cab and was asked for another $3 at the end of the ride. He said he drew a knife when the driver said he would "take him to place where he would pay."

Handicapped Children Return from France

BOSTON (AP)—Sixty-three handicapped children were back home today from a pilgrimage to the Catholic shrine at Lourdes, France, unimpaired their homeward journey was delayed by plane trouble.

The children and the 29 adults accompanying them were delayed up to 12 hours at Gander, Nfld., when one of the four engines on their big Irish Airlines plane quit a few hours out of Shannon, Ireland.

Irish Airlines diverted two planes to Gander to take the group, including Richard Cardinal Cushing, the remainder of the way to Boston Monday.

Cardinal Cushing, who called it "one of the most inspiring pilgrimages I have sponsored," said the children took the delay without murmur.

Pope John XXIII Gets New Crown

BERGAMO, Italy (AP)—Pope John XXIII gets a new crown Saturday from the people of his native Bergamo province. But the original design has been simplified with half the jewels left off at the pontiff's request.

The three-tiered, gem-encrusted crown was to have been presented to the Pope after his coronation last November when he received 3,500 pilgrims from the province in northern Italy.

The presentation was delayed because ecclesiastic authorities suggested minor changes in design. The pontiff himself suggested others. He asked that the difference in cost be used for charity.

To Override Ike's Veto Of Electric Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats are preparing an attempt to override President Eisenhower's veto of a rural electrification bill. They hope to gain a political advantage whether they win or lose.

If they can muster two-thirds of those voting in both houses and thus enact the measure, Democratic leaders feel they will have set a new pattern for more important bills likely to be bounced back to Congress by the President.

These include housing, airport aid and depressed areas legislation carrying spending authority substantially larger than Eisenhower recommended. No Eisenhower veto has been overridden.

If they lose, the Democrats believe they will have saddled the Republicans with a 1960 political liability—the enmity of farmers interested in REA expansion programs.

The argument over that started quickly, with statements and speeches both for and against overriding the veto.

The measure to which Eisenhower applied his veto Monday would strip Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and his successors of control over REA loans. It would give the REA administrator the final word in passing on such loans, although REA matters would remain under Benson's general supervision.

Eisenhower said such a shift "would mark a major retreat from sound administrative policy and practice."

"Moreover," he said, "there is nothing in the recent history of the REA which affords any basis for concluding that the best interests of the agency or the public would be served by removing the administrator's 10-a authority from the general direction and supervision of the secretary of agriculture."

Benson said the change would put the secretary in an intolerable situation, and added he could conclude only that "its motivation is purely political."

But the National Rural Electric Cooperative Assn., demanding a prompt congressional reversal, said the veto "further repudiates the concept of nonpolitical administration of REA."

The final loan authority was transferred from the administrator to the secretary by an Eisenhower reorganization plan which the Republican Congress permitted to go into effect early in 1953.

The vote on upsetting the veto could be very close.

The Senate passed the bill April 8 by a 60-27 vote, with seven Midwestern Republicans supporting it. Eight absent Democrats were recorded as favoring the measure.

A Senate decision to override the veto still would leave the measure's fate in doubt in the House, where it passed by a 254-131 vote April 15. This was less than a two thirds margin, so the votes of those who were absent then might be decisive.

Let's Talk Gardening

Simple Care Is Rewarding In Raising of Amaryllis

By Mrs. Myrtle Vest Johnson
Garden Club No. 6

Large flowered hybrid amaryllis bulbs will always be a prized possession. No other flowering plant that culturally is a simple and sure house plant, has blossoms so large and colorful. For just a few dollars and almost no work an amaryllis bulb is a long term investment that will yield bloom dividends for years.

Amaryllis bulbs can be planted during the months of Oct., Nov. and Dec. A number of bulbs potted at two or three week intervals during these months will give you blossoms from New Year into April.

When potting the bulbs use a good garden loam lightened by adding one part sand and one part peat to each three parts of soil. An inch of soil between the bulb and the wall of the pot is enough. Flowering depends mainly upon the energy the bulb stored during active growth of the plant last summer rather than on the soil in the pot.

When ordering request bulbs of at least 2 or 2½ inch diameter. For each 2½ to 3 inch bulb use a 7-inch pot. If larger bulbs use 8-inch pot.

Amaryllis can be grown in a restricted root space but usually the finest blooms and greatest number of offsets have always been obtained in large pots. This increased soil space, has allowed five years instead of the usual two or three years before repotting is necessary. Amaryllis bulbs bloom better the less their root systems are disturbed.

House grown amaryllis plants bloom as a rule in Jan., Feb. or March. There may be one, two or rarely three bloom stalks, each bearing two to a half dozen or more individual flowers.

After the flowers fade, continue to water the bulb to encourage growth of foliage. When settled warm weather has arrived, the pot may be sunk to its rim out of doors in partial shade. Neglect at this period is the commonest cause for bloom failure. All summer and into the fall the plant needs to be watered in order to keep it in active growth. With the approach of cold weather begin to withhold water and before heavy frosts, bring the pot indoors. Ordinarily the leaves will turn yellow and die down and the pot with its dormant bulb may be set away in the basement.

Do not feed fertilizer until after they have bloomed. When they have been moved indoors, withhold almost all water for a two months' period but not so severely that the soil becomes bone dry and the root system is killed. But keep them dry enough to stop all signs of growth. Allow a rest period of eight weeks for if they continue to grow they may make no effort to bloom. Amaryllis are semi-tropical plants therefore they will not stand freezing. They can use an enormous amount of sunlight, so east and south windows are best, with daily half turning of the pot to keep them growing straight.

When the bloom stalk is well out of the bulb, move the pot to a 60 degree to 65 degree place for two weeks and then into warm living quarters for their gorgeous flowering period.

There is the hardy amaryllis or Japanese wonder lily known as "Lycoris." Its narrow long and graceful leaves are produced in spring and die down by mid summer, to be followed in late July or August by suddenly throwing up flower stalks, about a foot and a half tall, each bearing a cluster of fragrant, lovely, lavender-pink lily like flowers which are infinitely more graceful and artistically proportioned than any of the well known amaryllis hybrids. They have all the charm of real lilies but because the stems are bare the bulbs should be planted among low growing perennials or with ferns. The bulbs which are hardy as far north as Boston increase slowly without replanting and in time form imposing clumps. I have never known any insect or disease to bother these lovely flowers.
